Karnataka plans to boost tourism with sea planes and virtual heritage tours

In a bid to boost tourism, Karnataka is planning some major changes with the introduction of sea planes to prime tourist destinations. The state government has announced plans to launch this service to add travel access to popular spots like Hampi, Krishna Raja Sagara (KRS), and the Almatti backwaters. These locations, often referred to as Karnataka's "tourism gems," will become inviting an influx of visitors. Tourism Minister HK Patil highlighted the government's commitment to promoting Karnataka's rich cultural and historical landmarks as part of this initiative. In addition to the sea planes, the government is working on creating a multi-lingual website aimed at attracting international tourists.

Artificial intelligence arrives at the Inbursa Aquarium in Mexico City

As part of its tenth anniversary, the Inbursa Aquarium has implemented an innovative application with artificial intelligence to identify species and explore the sea of this city. This mobile app was designed to transform the visitor experience by using artificial intelligence (AI) to make it easier for visitors to recognize marine species. With Navegapp, visitors can explore, learn about and interact with marine life in a whole new way. Through its AI technology, the app allows you to instantly identify marine species by simply capturing an image, providing detailed information about their habitat, characteristics and behaviour.
