"Weyan, a village in district Bandipora (Jammu & Kashmir) has become the first village in the country, where the entire population above 18 years has been vaccinated," the official Twitter account of PIB, Jammu and Kashmir said in a tweet.

Due to the difficult terrain of the area, the vaccinators had walked 18 km on foot to reach the village, as per the Governor's office.

"There is no internet access in the village. So it was not possible for the residents to get appointments for vaccination like the way people in urban areas do," Bashir Ahmed Khan, Chief Medical Officer, Bandipora said while explaining the difficulty faced by the healthcare workers, PTI reported. Passengers travel by sky pod for the first time in Sharjah

Passengers have climbed aboard the debut service of Sharjah's new uSky high-speed electric sky pods for the very first time. The sci-fi-esque feat of engineering could provide the inspiration for greener transport options for both people and goods in the future.

The four-seater UCar takes less than a minute to travel the 400-metre test track at the Sharjah Research, Technology and Innovation Park. Developers' uSky Transport and Unitsky String Technologies of Belarus are developing a bigger test track by November, with plans to eventually construct a permanent commercial line. The service could open as early as September 2023.

The cargo version would be capable of delivering 12m containers at high speeds, taking them off the roads and into the air. The technology could also one day mean a 20-minute commute from Dubai to Abu Dhabi... now that's something we'd love to see.

70 of 700 malls to be redeveloped in UK

"Many shopping centres have been left too long and need a radical rethink," added Stephen Springham, head of retail research at property advisory firm Knight Frank.

Springham estimates that about 10 percent of shopping centres are no longer viable, and believes a further 20 percent to 30 percent will need to a huge overhaul to offer more than retail.

Revitalising retail after the pandemic "Likewise, the independents sector has remained comparatively resilient and where shopping centre space has typically been dominated by chains, landlords might look to engage newer brands creating more diverse schemes by return."
